

Meet experts on care costs at free presentation evening

People concerned about the cost of their care are being invited to a presentation in Winchmore Hill on Wednesday 19th October.

Experts in wills, care fee planning and power of attorney will be amongst the guest speakers at the “free to attend” evening.

The event is being organised by Home Care Preferred, a provider of care at home who are based in Winchmore Hill.

“We decided to organise this event after a similar successful evening last year” explained Laura Beassett, who is the Community Relations Manager at Home Care Preferred. “I am delighted to be working with experts in their fields such as Andrew Dixon-Smith from Elder Care Solutions. These professionals can be a real benefit to people who are faced with confusing choices, often at a time in their lives when they are presented with deteriorating health”.

“People need to be aware of what benefits they are entitled to and also how to best fund their care, maybe using a combination of benefits and personal assets and savings” said Laura.

“Typically people sell their homes to pay for residential care fees” explained Laura, “however it is possible for people to be supported at home and retain the family house when they opt for live-in care. We are seeing more people successfully staying at home and the benefits of familiar surroundings and one-to-one care are enormous” Laura concluded. Anyone wishing to attend the evening, which is being held on Wednesday 19th October; 6.00pm at The King Head (The Long Room) | The Green, Winchmore Hill, N21 1BB should contact Laura Brassett to reserve a free place. Tel: 020 8364 3670 or laura@homecarepreferred.com
